The 2022 Pasadena Senior Games are now concluded, our first competitions after a two-year hiatus. The joy, excitement, and determination apparent at each sporting event was fantastic. Producing our Games in a not-quite-post pandemic world was challenging (to say the least!), but the spirit at each event underscored the value and the uniqueness of senior-only sports competitions.

It seemed that almost everything about the Games this year was turned upside down. Venues changed policies, longtime sports commissioners were unavailable, COVID protocols and risk-assessment shifted constantly, and resources (both time and money) were in short supply. We were able to host only fourteen sports instead of the usual twenty or more. Per-sport athlete attendance was down from 2019 in almost every sport. However, we still welcomed nearly 900 individuals to competitions during the 2022 Games. The vitality and camaraderie at each competition was energizing.

The challenges we faced this year turned out to also be opportunities. We had to look at each sport with new eyes, and we found new partners and new possibilities while deepening ties to longtime associates, athletes, and volunteers.

As we close out 2022, I want to give special thanks to our Track & Field and Road Race director Jim Hanley, who retired at the end of this season, and to past Track & Field co-meet director Christel Donley who was not able to join us this year. Jim and Christel have been a part of Pasadena Senior Games since our first year in 1993, and their commitment to excellence will continue to guide us into the future.
